Tidbits from the editor....

Do you subscribe to one or more photography magazines? I'm amazed at the number of people in the club who ask me questions which are commonly answered in magazine articles. Hunters and fishermen subscribe to sports magazines, farmers subscribe to farm magazines, and the list could go on. If you don't subscribe to an imaging magazine, you should, because that's where you will find the latest information about your hobby.

Are you new to digital darkrooms? The October 2005 issue of PC Photo is a special "How-To" issue. It contains articles on perspective control, studio lighting, digital workflow (20 easy digital darkroom steps), choosing a system, using RAW, layers, getting better inkjet prints, monitor calibration, and more.

Adobe just announced PhotoShop Elements 4. See their web site at www.adobe.com or check out the following link:

SWMCCC NEWS

Subject: Chicago Area Camera Clubs Assn
Seminar Oct 30

Dear SWMCCC friends:

Tim Grey and Ben Wilmore are coming to Chicago!

CACCA is planning an exciting all day Chicago area Photographic School on Sunday Oct. 30 and we would love to have you get the word out to your club members. The day offers two options. One is a series of 6 one hour classes but the other is something new ... a full day shared by two major technical gurus: Ben Wilmore an Adobe Evangelist and Tim Grey known not only for his books but for his daily email Q/A, his work with the Lepp digital institute and now is working with Microsoft.

Our clubs have always been very supportive of SWMCCC's summer weekend and we hope you will help us out in this endeavor. All the info is available at our website where the registration brochure can be downloaded with all the details: <http://www.chicameraclubsorg/caps.htm>

Your club members will be given the camera club price of $60 (rather than the general public rate of $75). The brochure states that the deadline is Oct 8 but we will extend the deadline until Oct 20 for your members providing that seats remain.

Please do what you can to get the word out.

Grateful for any help you can give,

Pat Wadecki, CACCA president and CAPS cochair
